
Description:

Welcome to this autumn edition of eyetoeye, Ingenta's newsletter for libraries. We're delighted to be reporting lots of big news, including the latest groundbreaking development in our relationship with Google, an exciting new release of IngentaConnect, and our extended service in China. We reveal the state-of-the-art technologies behind IngentaConnect and related systems in this issue's InSight feature, "Under the Hood" and announce the latest publishers and titles to join the service. Plus there's special offers both from us and our publishers, and news of an important change to our delivery of Blackwell Publishing journals. Finally, be sure to catch up with our library teams as they hit the road this winter - we hope to see many of you at events including Online Information and ALA Midwinter.

On behalf of all of us at Ingenta,
Douglas Wright
Vice President, IngentaConnect
